Writing Program Mini-Conference: Recycled Papers
March 4, 2022 (on Zoom)

WHAT
If you are presenting at CCCC in 2022, or if you gave a writing-related talk/presentation in the last few years, please participate in the Writing Program Mini-Conference! We invite recent-ish presentations/papers, such as those from CCCC, Young Rhetoricians, campus presentations focused on writing, etc. There will be time for discussion.

WHEN
Our plan is to start at 10am on March 4, and we'll determine the end-time when we see how many folks want to participate. We'll send a schedule, and like a regular conference, folks are welcome to come to some talks/presentations and not others.
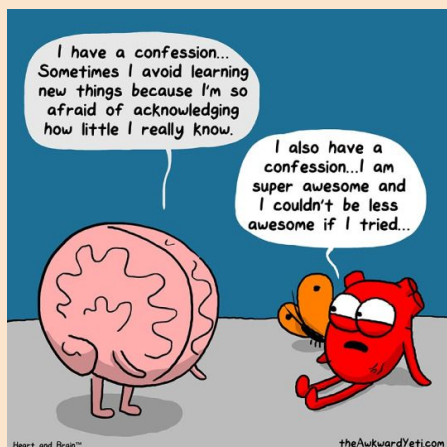

WHY
We all do a lot of great work, but sometimes, we don't get to share it with each other. This is a chance to share what we're doing in a very low effort (but Biobib-able) free event. For this mini-conference, presenters do not need to edit their presentations - presenters can begin by providing context for the presentation's original/intended audience if needed.

HOW
If you have an existing presentation to share with your colleagues, please complete this Google Form, which asks for:
- the presentation/talk title
- a very short description of presentation/talk
- the original/intended audience and year
- presentation/talk length
- availability on March 4

ACCESS
We welcome active and passive participation from audience members. If you are presenting, prepare to share your notes, outline, and/or text of your talk. Also, prepare to share links to slides or handouts. If you need accommodations for this event, please contact avidali@ucsc.edu with what you need. (Disclosing why you need this accommodation is not required.)
